

My first and fondest memory of Terry:

I first met Terry on the lunchtime volleyball court of Marine Geology at the Hiller Building [Willow Road, Menlo Park], around 1975. It was a concrete pad, with the net tied to some wooden slats on one side, and a pole cemented into a tire on the other. When I stepped onto the court, I was the shortest player by far, and he was undoubtedly the tallest. Much to my surprise, I put up the most perfect set of my life, and Terry, my on-side hitter, just crushed the ball! It's just one of those memorable moments that will be with me forever.

Carol Reiss
creiss@usgs.gov